

Do you have Huntington's disease?

Researchers from the University of Virginia are trying to find out how thinking patterns affect mood and anxiety symptoms in Huntington's disease (HD). We are recruiting people diagnosed with HD to complete some online surveys about their thinking patterns, mood, and anxiety symptoms.

You may be eligible to participate if you have been diagnosed with HD, are 21 or older, and have never been diagnosed with dementia. Eligible participants can receive up to $50 in gift cards.

If you are interested in participating in this study, please type the web address below into your web browser or send me an email. The link below will first take you to an informed consent document that will tell you more details about the study. Please review the informed consent document and reach out to me if you have any questions or comments about the study. Once you feel comfortable with participating in the study, please complete and sign that informed consent document electronically. You will then be taken to a screen to begin the survey study.

<https://redcapsurvey.healthsystem.virginia.edu/surveys/?s=ADXLNLX49L>

If you have questions about this study, please do not hesitate to reach out via email or telephone.

Gratefully,

Jessie Gibson, PhD, RN, AGPCNP-BC

Assistant Professor, University of Virginia School of Nursing and Department of Neurology

Email: js6zn@virginia.edu

Phone: 434-924-0107